

What Does Hill-Murray Student Council do?

The Hill-Murray student council is in charge of planning Christmas week, and Spring Fling week. The council also plans service opportunities, including the blood drive. Another job of the council is to bring up issues concerning the day to day life of the student body. The full council is responsible for all of the aspects, but the group is also divided into committees to focus on one of these areas.

Full Council Meetings

The entire student council meets before school on Fridays. The council is able to discuss any of the current projects. As a full group decision are made, under the leadership of our president or vice president. The council votes on issues during this time, which must pass by a majority of the present issues. Ties will be broken by the president, or by the advisor who can also veto ideas. This is a very crucial and important time for the student council.

The Activities Committee

This committee is in charge of planning and advertising the schools social events which include homecoming week, Halloween, Christmas week, Valentine's Day, and spring fling. This committee meets often to plan the next event.

The Service Committee

The Service Committee was established as part of Hill-Murray's mission to help others in the community. This committee involves planning and advertising the Thanksgiving food drive, the Red Cross blood drive, and a service activity for the student council members. This committee meets regularly to plan the events

The Student Life Committee

This committee deals directly with the students of Hill-Murray. The Student Life committee focuses on raising issues that affect the daily life of students at Hill-Murray. Issues that have been raised in the past include new drinking fountains, increasing passing time, and uniform changes. This committee meets frequently to discuss the current issues of the school.

The Executive Board

The Executive Board is made up the President, Vice President, Secretary, Treasurer, Director of Activities, Director of Service, Director of Student Life, and the Student Council Advisor. This group meets opposite of the full council to discuss the upcoming events. This board is meant to provide a stronger leadership and organization for the full council.
